Computer & Communications systems (CCS) Jordan and LetMeRepair MEA join forces in creating LetMeRepair CCS Holding

LetMeRepair MEA (Middle East Africa) a division of the LetMeRepair EMEA group has joined forces with Computer & Communications systems (CCS) Jordan, a leading ICT services company in the Middle East, in a move to significantly strengthen its presence in the market.

Bringing together these two organisations will create one of the largest ICT services organisations in the Middle East (MDE) region enabling both LetMeRepair and CCS the ability to enhance their service capabilities in their respective markets.

LetMeRepair CCS Holding will launch the first operation in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia (KSA) offering high level turn key solutions and services to IT Vendors; Channel Markets; Corporates and Ministries. Joining these forces gives the customers throughout KSA the peace of mind regarding quality assurance and superior efficiencies.

“While always advancing the growth of all our service offerings we are particularly advocating this on the warranty and managed services side. The regional experience that CCS brings to the table makes it possible for us to reach our 18 month growth plan realistically and confidently” says Zuheir Qulaghassi newly appointed Managing Director of the holding company.

Uwe Dominick, Managing Director of LetMeRepair MEA, says “that the gain is closely tied with the groups strategy to expand its annuity business, particularly in the MDE Region, and is in line with LetMeRepairs plans to operate as one of the largest EMEA companies within the next 18 months”.

The Joint Venture also brings strong management from both organisations into KSA in an effort to enhancing the relationships and adding value to blue chip IT and mobile companies. The marriage of these organisations strengths, with the IT support services competencies, positions it in a significantly broader business landscape. This JV elevates its standing as a foremost player in the industry, while furthering its focus on service excellence.
